The East Riding Festival of Words. There are lots of events over the period in different locations and often one on crime writing.	Read a range of Conan-Doyle's Sherlock Holmes stories to get a real feel for the character and plot formula. You could try one of the novels like A Study in Scarlet , The Hound of the Baskervilles , or The Sign of Four , or dip into one of the many short stories from The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes . These are also available as audiobooks and many can be watched/listened to on YouTube.	Watch a film version of a Sherlock Holmes story and write a review.	Carry out research into the lives of famous Victorian criminals. Some of them have amazing stories. Some examples might be: <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>- Mary Ann Cotton</li><li>- Amelia Dyer</li><li>- William Henry Bury</li><li>- David Haggart</li></ul>
